

Two Dollar Wells

a mad-verse half-kasen July 2017

Global Haiku Traditions Millikin University

by

Randy Brooks
Sean Dial
Zachary Dilbeck
Brandon Suwanpratest
Hailey Sharp
Joshua Mysliwicz
Jennifer Yeakley
Hailey Sharp
Thomas Friend
Norman Mears

Two Dollar Wells

the full moon glows
two lovers
separate their things

a promise to write often

truck door shuts
they smile
she begins walking

laughing...
he follows her shadow

the stars light up the walkway
she seems happy

alarm clock rings she's laying right next to him another day at the office computer still not working he eats alone

cussing screaming yelling he wants to quit

what to drink
rum or whiskey
both

bacon and eggs
for the hangover

bloody marys
Sundays
why go to church?

the alter of Friar Tuck

a homerun headed for the crescent moon

World Series team
looking to use the broom

Two dollar wells

Donnie's tends to you
why stay at home?

drinks after class
lets go

intimate lights glowing rose scented wine

she pulls away
until next time

• • •