PURPOSE OF THE COURSE

Course Description:

Global Haiku Traditions examines the origins and spread of Japanese poetics from Japan around the world, with a special focus on the adaptation of haiku into other cultures and languages. This course explores the role of haiku as a social literary art—both the art of reading and art of writing haiku emphasize the importance of shared collaborative aesthetic experiences (shared acts of the imagination).

There is a very active global haiku community of writers, editors, scholars and associations celebrating participation in this literary art. We will study the history of haiku and related poetics in Japan, and then examine the contemporary internalization of haiku in various cultures. Students complete both an analytical study of a contemporary haiku poet or issue in the haiku community as well as various creative projects connecting haiku to other arts. There are numerous web resources available for this course located at: <<http://www.brooksbookshaiku.com/MillikinHaiku/courses>>.

Course Learning Goals, Outcomes & Objectives:

Students will explore the history and practice Japanese haikai poetics and learn about the role of this literary art in both Japanese and contemporary American culture. Students will compare authors and approaches to haiku from both Japanese and American traditions. Students will develop their professional writing abilities, as academic research writers through a study of a contemporary haiku writer. The haikai arts emphasize the power of concise writing, in which silence and things not said may be as important as the things said. Therefore, study of the haikai arts helps students develop exact, precise writing skills. Also, since haiku is the art of suggestion and connotation, it requires an integration of reading and writing abilities.

Haikai arts stress the importance of an active reader to “finish” the haiku in their own mind. The active response to a haiku is to share your imagined response, or to create another haiku or extension of the original haiku. This process of connecting personal experiences, memories and feelings to the haiku by others helps students explore their own lives, memories, feelings and values. As students practice the art of reading and writing haiku, they discover that the haikai arts are not the exclusive domain of professional writers. They discover that haiku is a possible means of developing a personal life of meaning and value from their own reading responses and through the writing of their own original haiku.

University Studies Learning Goals:

This course also has been approved to fulfill the Creative Arts requirement for University Studies that students will:

1. investigate discipline-specific creative processes;
2. analyze the art using discipline-appropriate vocabulary; and
3. evaluate how art relates to an individual life of meaning and value.

This course also has been approved to fulfill the International Cultures and Structures requirement for University Studies that students will be able to:

1. Explore international cultures and/or social structures.
2. Compare culturally diverse points of view through examination of primary sources.
3. Demonstrate a critical awareness of cultural diversity.

English Department & College of Arts & Sciences Learning Goals:

This course also fulfills an international literature course for English majors, and a literary studies course for the distribution requirement in the College of Arts & Sciences.

LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

Online (both synchronous and asynchronous) Immersion Course

As both a synchronous and asynchronous online immersion course there are four required ZOOM class meetings in evenings from 6:30-7:00pm – 06/15, 06/22, 06/29, 07/06 (each meeting is worth 20 points). The rest of the assignments can be completed as asynchronous assignments based on posted due dates. 05/18 is our ORIENTATION ZOOM meeting. Do NOT miss out this important startup!

Students will engage as readers and writers in the haiku tradition, as well as researchers and critics of other writers. Also, the final individual project asks each student to make connections to another area of expertise (whatever discipline), and to complete a final project that is a multidisciplinary product and presentation.

Moodle Course & Web Site

This course is a distance delivery course. Reading resources and peer student work and the grade book are provided through Millikin University course management software, Moodle. You will need to log onto Moodle to download most reading assignments. There is also a course web site with an assignment blog at:

<<http://www.brooksbookshaiku.com/MillikinHaiku/courses/globalJuly2026/>>.

The course requires frequent submissions of written responses and haiku writing at attachments to the instructor, Randy Brooks at rbrooks@millikin.edu.

E-mail – The email system on campus is a vital communications tool and may be used by the student, professor and other school officials in the delivery of information and instructions. Students are responsible for routinely checking their Millikin University e-mail for schedule changes, assignments, and/or other messages from the professor(s) or university representatives. Faculty members are instructed to use their Millikin University email address for communication purposes. Students must follow University email rules at all times; these can be found at: <<http://it.millikin.edu/>>. Failure to use the email system in accordance with University policies may result in revocation of email privileges.

COURSE SCHEDULE & PLANS

Course Organization

Keep in mind that the online immersion course is designed for completion of daily work for three weeks. The course meets SYNCHRONOUSLY by ZOOM four times:

(6:30-7:00pm Central Standard Time zone) – 06/15, 06/22, 06/29, 07/06

For a complete guide, see the course web blog for complete asynchronous assignments at:

<<http://www.brooksbookshaiku.com/MillikinHaiku/courses/globalJuly2026/assignments.html>>

This course is organized as a continuous mix of reading haiku, writing responses to haiku, writing original haiku, collaborative writing of linked verse, and completing creative projects related to the intertwined arts of reading and writing haiku.

When referring to a haiku by any author for any assignment, please use the following means of citation. Always type the entire haiku (DO NOT CHANGE CAPITAL LETTERS or WORD SPACING!). Then include the author and an abbreviation of the publication source. For example, here is a haiku by Peggy Lyles from her book, To Hear the Rain:

I brush
my mother's hair
the sparks

Peggy Lyles, Red Leaves, 75

Grading Scale & Methods:

Course grades and percentage of points received will be correlated as follows:

Informal Assignments, Quizzes, Email Responses, Exercises & Planning Work

Informal assignments will be graded with a simple check-system (+) (√) or (-) indicating completion of the assignment. These grades indicate that

- 100% (+) you have done an excellent, thoughtful writing, (20 points)
- 50% (√) you have completed the assignment adequately, (10 points) or
- 0% (-) you have not fulfilled the assignment and cannot make it up (0 points).

Formal Documents

The other assignments are considered formal which means that they should be printed, carefully edited, revised and designed for maximum effectiveness with the intended audience. Proper citation of sources and a works cited section is expected.

A = "exceptional" or "outstanding" work

B = "above average" Effort was put into the work above and beyond what was required.

C = "average" Note that "average" does not mean good or bad, just average as in like everyone else's work. The students completed the basic requirements as laid out in the directions. Students did the minimum effort required.

D = "below average" This effort did not even meet the minimum requirements or was sub-par.

F = "below college standards" Very little effort went into the assignment.

Course grades will be determined as follows: (A+=100, A=95, A-=90, B+=88, B=85, B-=80, C+=78, C=75, C-=70, D+=68, D=65, F=0)

Attendance & Late Assignments

This is an online class, but there are due dates for assignments to spread your homework over the four weeks of the course.

Students who do not engage in daily online assignments will be academically withdrawn from the course. If you know you will need to miss a day or two, please let me know ahead of time.

NO ASSIGNMENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER July 11, 2026.
