Fraternity Under the Moon & Sun

outdoor couch weather finding all of us outside once again

shining down on us
the warm rays of the Sun

tossing bags
red and blue . . .
drinking

water of the Gods
beer

later that night
by the fire
moonlight overhead

fire and beer
warming us inside and out

smoke blows
in my face
I can't see

deafening sound
train screaming in the darkness

truck headlights
blinding us
just like the smoke

music blaring
from the truck speakers

friends laughing
bottles clinking
flames crackling

sparks in our eyes
from the flames and new ideas

moon above
battling
the orange glow

finally breathing
at least for one more night

fire rustles
starch-stained denim creases rolling tide

music in the embers
green haze over the smoke

next morning
hungover
as the flowers bloom

drinking coffee
with the boys
