silver sheets
stick to my skin
soft snores

jo

I watch his chest
rising and falling like the sun

kk

the vibration
of a pur
felt at my feet

cl

rain drops falling
outside and inside

ad

the moon's gentle light
pours over my favorite evening

ab

I sing a tune to myself on the porch swing

jm

swinging by myself
sipping iced tea
he comes to join me

children run
across the mulch

every day
a brand new...
adventure for them

I wonder where my sense of wonder went

kk

my underwear
under the bed
and his

jo

perfume stings
an open heart

piercing
as they come together
a solar eclipse

I shouldn't stare
but I can't look away

a large woman
bent over to tie her shoe a whole new view

combing down his hair he blushes thinking of her

only hoping she loves the
cherry blossoms, too

out of touch with nature, i retreat inside
